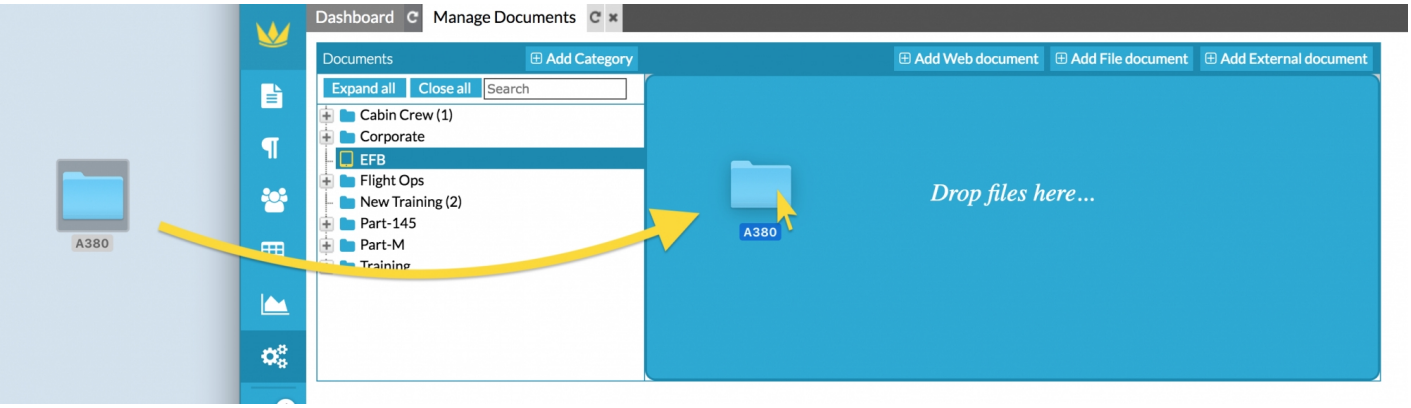
WEB MANUALS TRANSFORMS REGULATORY COMPLIANCE WITH ‘WORD-KILLER’ SOFTWARE TOOL

News / Business aviation, Events / Festivals



Web Manuals International AB is launching a feature-packed new version of its regulatory compliance software that the company predicts will end operators’ reliance on Microsoft Word for their aviation documentation.

Branded ‘Hurricane’, the new software is the seventh version of the company’s digital document management solution. Revolutionizing aviation manuals and regulatory compliance, Web Manuals makes the digitization, authoring, and distribution of operational documentation easyand accessible to operators of all sizes.

Hurricane transforms new user’s experience with more than 200 new guides, including interactive step-by-step walkthroughs and 35 video demonstrations, making user adoption quicker and easier than ever.

The new document template facility makes it easy to create documents in a fraction of the time. As an example, users can create one master Operation Manual Part B (OM-B), which can be adapted to any aircraft’s specifications, with any changes made to the master OM-B mirrored across a fleet. This provides the perfect multi-aircraft solution for business jet operators or aircraft management companies.

Operators can now easily make documents consistent with their corporate identity guidelines, building credibility with staff and auditors alike, demonstrating to all that the document suite is professionally managed and tailored to the organization. Quick-reference handbooks also have increased functionality through side tabs, making it easier to quickly reach upon the desired section.
