

VOLGA-DNEPR AND SHEREMETYEVO PARTNER UP FOR CARGO DEVELOPMENT

News / Airlines

Volga-Dnepr Group and Sheremetyevo International Airport have joined with the aim of growing the air cargo industry in Russia.

They have signed an agreement on long-term and mutually-beneficial co-operation to develop cargo at the Moscow gateway, which they say aims to achieve correspondence with the high global industry standards.

This is a strategic step and a milestone in the history of the companies' long-term partnership and intends to join forces of the airport and the airline in the areas influencing development of air cargo business.

Sheremetyevo International Airport director general, Michael Vasilenko says: "For our airport, agreement of such level and context is the key to success as it anticipates a systematic approach towards enhancement of cargo infrastructure.

"We are delighted to see that it embraces not only the quantitative side where Volga-Dnepr Group guarantees an agreed volume of transit, transfer and import-export cargo flows, but the qualitative side as well with the building of an up-to-date hangar complex for maintenance and repair services, expansion of cargo facilities to offer handling for special commodities and, most importantly, provision of all the resources needed from our side.”

Besides cargo infrastructure enhancement at the airport, the agreement will encourage co-operation with other international airports in order to increase cargo flows and exchange experience in terms of implementation of certain business-related projects and innovations.

AirBridgeCargo Airlines director general, Sergey Lazarev adds: “Both Volga-Dnepr Group and Sheremetyevo airport are strategically oriented towards development of a modern international level air cargo hub at the premises of Sheremetyevo airport.

“All the agreements and mutual obligations reached in this agreement are particularly intended to guarantee a high quality level of air cargo services for our customers.”
